ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A display device of an information-processing device comprises a display unit and a cover enclosing a backside surface of the display unit. The display unit comprises a plate, a chassis, and a bezel holding peripheral edges of the plate. In the display device, the bezel is provided with an extension portion which is extended from a side of the display unit and outwardly projects from an end of the chassis.